

Humanities is the combined study of everything that human beings do in pursuit of truth and beauty. This includes not only the great works of art and literature, but also the times and cultures of the people who produced them.

Global Humanities introduces students to the great works of global cultures.

European Humanities focuses on the contributions of western civilization to the understanding of humanity.

Fulbright Fellow Linda Richardson (Humanities major, class of 2007) on a scholarship to study Flamenco in Seville, Spain. Spring 2011

What can you do with a Humanities major?

Our majors enter a variety of fields that require advanced skills in critical thinking, analysis, language, and writing. Alumni are working in the fields of healthcare, education, business, law, nonprofit organizations, the Peace Corps, tourism, and other areas of endeavor.

Department of Classics and Humanities

San Diego State University
5500 Campanile Drive
San Diego, CA 92182-6064
619.594.5186
<http://classicsandhumanities.sdsu.edu>

Humanities

Travel, language, music, art, literature, food...everything! A major in the Humanities takes you to the world's cultures via classroom learning, travel, language instruction, and more! Interdisciplinary studies in the humanities prepare you for life.

Talk with the Chair or Advisor Today!

619.594.5186

<http://classicsandhumanities.sdsu.edu>

What is your passion?

